A Robust History

Judge Charles Kellogg built the historic flour mill in New Hope in 1823. It was in 1947 that the mill was sold to the Weed family, and has since remained a family operated business. In 2004, New Hope Mills moved production to Auburn, NY and started a small cafe and store. In 2012 the business was passed on to its third generation of the Weed family. The business has grown and the family is still dedicated to the tradition of providing quality products and to the mission of helping families make memories around the table.

Finally, as a freeman, he settled in New Hope, NY, and worked for Rounds Milling for nearly 35 years. He was known as a man of great stature and strength. It is said that he would carry 100 lb bags of flour - not just one - but two at a time; one over each shoulder. Sampson Eddy was "a preacher of power and one fervent in prayer. He conducted evangelistic and worship services in local churches and schoolhouses, private homes and camp meetings."

This hearty meal is dedicated to Sampson Eddy's memory.
